Subject: incorrect beliefs the girls have expressed about me

Date: Sun, 12 Jun 2005 20:02:37 +0000 steve

I don't know if you receive information as you choose not to respond. I will make every effort to see that you are informed of my concerns.

I have expressed clearly that an obstacle to any healing path with the girls can in a large part be attributed to false perceptions that the girls hold about me. This would certainly taint their view of anything I say and do causing them not to believe and unwilling to accept anything that I offer of myself.

Their rejection of loving expression such as my letter to Polly at Kairos and the recent cards I mailed to them is now understandable to me. Things that they have said and expressed in a variety of formats.

I am listing here some of the distortions and false beliefs that I have picked up on that are a huge concern:

FALSE

1. That I hate men
2. That I believe all men are rapists honor and respect a lady 3. That I am a racist what they are inside - not appearances That I cared about others and not them them is love, I failed to see a risk for their importance to them 5. That I ruin people's lives held accountable held consequences certain results
6. That I screwed around I degrade myself for false love 7. That I married you for money person, it's how you view too many women yourself more
8. That I was robbing you of money stand up for
9. That I expected perfection mistakes+accountability=growth, we're all human 10. That I lived my dreams thru them them, not be them 11. They believe that I am evil values, no depth - I'm not shallow 12. They believe I am mentally ill caused by real grief and fear isn't an illness 13. That I didn't and don't forgive forgiven even when remorse was absent 14. That I tried to catch them doing wrong safe under surreal circumstances 15. That I believed their actions were manipulation

TRUTH

- I don't hate anyone
